IPS-Sendero Unit of Fiserv Hosts EMEA Path 2005 Conference in Nice, France March 7-10

Event to Focus on Enterprise Risk Management and Profitability Issues for Financial Institutions

ATLANTA & LONDON--March 3, 2005--IPS-Sendero, a unit of Fiserv, Inc. (Nasdaq:FISV) and a provider of technology solutions and education for enterprise risk and corporate performance management, will host the annual Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) Path 2005 Conference in Nice, France March 7-10.

The conference will focus on compliance with Basel II and IAS 39, global asset/liability management concepts, enterprise risk management strategies and corporate performance management techniques for financial institutions.

Dr. Donald R. van Deventer, chairman of Kamakura Corporation, IPS-Sendero's strategic enterprise risk management partner, will be the event's headline presenter. Other featured speakers will include Geoff Kates, managing director of Lepus Ltd., and executives of Logica CMG, Northern Rock plc, Bank Austria Creditanstalt, Riyad Bank and Central-European International Bank (CIB).

The event will offer attendees unique networking opportunities with banking peers, industry leaders and IPS-Sendero professionals. Session topics will include practical use of credit risk models; trends in liquidity risk management; modeling correlated default in an integrated risk management framework; managing and improving customer profitability, Basel II - Pillars I and II; and modeling credit risk, market risk and ALM in a Basel II framework.

"IPS-Sendero is proud to present this year's EMEA Path Conference as a valuable educational resource and networking opportunity for participants who are looking to expand their perspective and develop strategies and solutions to affect their organization's growth and profitability," said Nigel Sirett, managing director EMEA, IPS-Sendero. "The caliber of presenters and participants at this conference will make this event the premier risk and profitability management forum of 2005."

Conference sessions are organized concurrently to provide participants with the opportunity to explore enterprise risk management or enterprise performance management issues facing their institutions. This year's conference will be held at the Palais de la Mediterranee in Nice in the heart of the French Riviera.
